*Please refer to the policy governing the Academic Review Board (ARB) and Appeal Committees in the Student Handbook. This document serves to specify various follow up actions taken by the Phase 1 ARB.

Each student's performance is tracked throughout the academic year along the applicable Graduation Competencies. Students are reviewed on a case by case basis, therefore actions taken are at the discretion of the ARB.

In general, a student failing only one course is contacted by the course director. Students who are failing two or more courses, or, EC/Probation students who are failing one or more courses, will be contacted by the Assistant Dean for the Foundational Sciences. The students of most concern will also be required to meet with the Dean of Student Affairs and the Director of Student Support Services.

Documentation provided to the students usually includes the cumulative percentage score for each course, trends that have been discussed, and suggestions or requirements for meeting with course directors, Deans, and Academic Support Services.

Furthermore, those students with multiple deficiencies may not hold a class officer position. Students may also be counseled and/or required to withdraw from electives and service activities in order to maintain good academic standing.
