About the College of Nursing at Upstate Medical University

Upstate's College of Nursing educates students who are already RNs, allowing them to build upon their previous training. Our programs are designed to provide the best career opportunities for nurses and the best care for patients.

Our evidence-based programs help students develop the critical thinking, knowledge and skills to provide the highest level of nursing care. Studies show advanced nursing education translates to better outcomes for patients.

Upstate's College of Nursing...

- Is the only nursing program in Central New York that is part of an academic medical university.
- Offers advanced degrees for nurses at every phase of their career.
- Started the region's first Doctor of Nursing Practice degree program in 2013.
- Provides robust continuing nursing education.

Because we're part of the State University of New York (SUNY), tuition for programs at Upstate is less than at private colleges. Schedule an appointment by calling the Office of Student Admissions at (315) 464-4570.
