“As medical schools around the country continue to integrate more clinical skills and focus on humanistic patient interactions, the Setnor Academic Building demonstrates Upstate’s commitment to growth and change in order to offer us an exemplary medical education.”

—Andrea Shaw, Class of 2008

Thank You!

Upstate Medical University alumni are truly a caring community, raising $1.2 million to support the institution and its students. On the following pages, we salute our generous donors, whose gifts have provided scholarships, programs, research, new learning opportunities and facilities that would not otherwise be possible.

SETNOR ACADEMIC BUILDING CAMPAIGN:

Breaking New Ground

Upstate Medical University dedicated the future site of its new academic building, named for Jules and Rose Setnor and Rose's brother, Stanford, during a campus ceremony on September 14.

The building is made possible by donations from Upstate faculty, residents, friends and alumni, most notably the Setnors, whose $3 million lead gift will ensure the building's state-of-the-art design. Funding from New York state and SUNY Upstate's capital budget also will support construction costs.

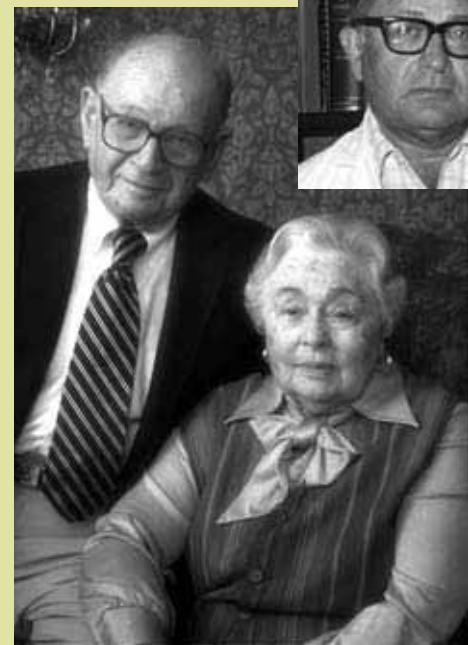

"We are grateful to the Setnors for their extraordinary support of our academic mission," says SUNY Upstate President Gregory L. Eastwood, MD. "The generosity of the Setnors and that of all alumni who support this effort continues a strong tradition of beneficence on the part of our medical alumni. Our students are thankful for your support as it helps continue our tradition of excellence in medical education."

The Setnors' connection to Upstate comes by way of Syracuse University. Both Jules Setnor and Stanford Setnor earned medical degrees from Syracuse University's Medical College in 1935 and 1942, respectively. Syracuse University's Medical College became affiliated with the State University of New York in 1950. Rose Setnor, who died on October 7, 2005, earned a degree from SU in 1933 and married Jules Setnor at the end of his second year in medical school.

The five-story, $10-million, 46,000-square-foot Rose and Jules R. Setnor, MD '35 and Stanford S. Setnor, MD '42 Academic Building will be the first new classroom space built on the SUNY Upstate campus in nearly three decades, and will provide one of the most contemporary settings for medical education, especially the teaching of clinical skills. The Clinical Skills Teaching Center includes 22 exam rooms, closed-circuit monitoring and state-of-the-art medical equipment. It is in this space that students will shape their "bedside manner" and clinical skills.

While the Clinical Skills Teaching Center is a highlight of the Setnor Academic Building, it is not the only significant teaching space. The building will boast six new classrooms, all of which can be reconfigured or divided to facilitate small group demonstrations. Classrooms will be named for faculty members who have been recognized for their outstanding teaching by students. They are: Robert F. Rohner, MD (Pathology); Frederick B. Parker, MD (Surgery); Elinor Spring-Mills, PhD (Cell and Developmental Biology); Maxwell M. Mozell, PhD (College of Graduate Studies); Irwin M. Weiner, MD (Pharmacology); and William J. Williams, MD (Medicine).

The building, which will stand on the north side of Weiskotten Hall, will be connected to Weiskotten Hall by a glass atrium that will provide a commons for informal study. Conference and meeting room space, an office suite for faculty, and alumni office space round out the building design. The building will have wireless Internet capability and a full complement of the latest teaching technologies.

Construction on the Setnor Academic Building will be completed by 2007.

HONORING PAT NUMANN, MD '65

In honor of her life's work and outstanding dedication, Upstate Medical University is creating its first endowed department chair: the Patricia J. Numann, MD, Chair of Surgery. Through its research and patient care funds, this endowment will help attract more fine surgeons and leaders like Dr. Numann.

In addition, the hospital's Breast Care Center at University Health Care Center in downtown Syracuse will be renamed "The Patricia J. Numann Breast Care Center."

Colleagues, former students, and patients are invited to contribute to this $1.5 million campaign, which pays lasting tribute to the skill, leadership and compassion of a truly remarkable woman.

To support the Patricia J. Numann Tribute Fund, send your contribution to: Numann Tribute Fund, Upstate Medical Alumni Association, 155 Elizabeth Blackwell Street Syracuse, NY 13210.

Or visit our secure website: www.upstate.edu/medalumni

FISCHER GOLF TOURNAMENT HELD

The third-annual Joseph C. Fischer, MD '79 Memorial Golf Tournament was held on August 8, 2005, at Bellevue Country Club in Syracuse. Proceeds from the tournament benefit the Joseph C. Fischer, MD '79 Memorial Scholarship at Upstate Medical University. To date, contributions to the fund total $65,965, which pays a $3,000 scholarship annually. This year's recipient was Nina Nami, class of 2006.

Lori Murphy, interim executive director of the Syracuse Medical Alumni Association, presents a check to Nina Nami '06, from the Joseph C. Fischer, MD '79 Scholarship Fund.
