

EARN A BS IN RESPIRATORY THERAPY FROM UPSTATE MEDICAL UNIVERSITY WHILE IN ROCHESTER

Students in Western New York can earn an Upstate Medical University degree in Respiratory Therapy through a new distance learning program at the new campus of the Rochester General College of Health Careers (RGCCHC).

Upstate is one of just eight programs in the nation to be recognized with the APEX Award from the American Association for Respiratory Care for faculty and program excellence, as well as outstanding outcomes for graduates.

All first-year classes and laboratories will be held at the RGCCHC campus. All clinical experiences will be in Rochester-area hospitals and clinics. Second-year students may need to travel to Syracuse for some classes on the Upstate campus.

This is an upper-division course, open to students who have necessary prerequisites. Rochester program is contingent on sufficient enrollment. For complete information on prerequisites, curriculum, faculty and other program facts:
