

4/29/2020 – Prometric Confusion

Dear Students

We have just learned from colleagues at other medical schools that some students received exam cancellations from Prometric earlier this week but now are receiving emails confirming their original dates. One faculty member said she thought it could be an automated confirmation that didn't get turned off. We all are trying to get additional information about this confusing situation and will update you when we know more.

Dr. Lesperance